

HISTORY

CAPIC was founded in 1991 as a consortium of doctoral academic programs and internship agencies, adding postdoctoral members in 2008. It is structured as a non-profit charitable and educational corporation in California.

Founders recognized that doctoral academic programs and internship agencies each offered what the other needed, and that by working together, they could increase the quality of professional psychology training throughout the entire education trajectory, as well as to provide psychological services to the diverse populations in California.

CAPIC training and supervision standards are based on those of the Association of Psychology Postdoctoral and Internship Centers (APPIC).

CAPIC doctoral internships and postdoctoral fellowships are recognized by the California Board of Psychology (CA BoP) alongside APA-accredited and APPIC-member programs.

I love the work that I do. I will continue to work hard to provide our community with a unique resource to help increase their quality of life.

Thanks to CAPIC for helping me broaden my journey as a psychologist.
